

Friendship and Cooperation

Chapter 1: Family and Friends · Topic 2

Key Concept

Good friends support each other, share things, listen to one another, and help each other through difficult times.

Cooperation means working together, like completing a group project or a team task, where everyone contributes their part to succeed.

Friendship and cooperation often go together - good friends usually cooperate well because they trust and respect each other.

Learning to be a good friend and cooperate with others helps us build strong relationships and succeed in group activities throughout our lives.

Quick Revision Notes

- Friendship is a caring, trusting relationship.
- Good friends support and help each other.
- Cooperation means working together toward a goal.
- Group projects require cooperation.
- Friendship and cooperation often go together.
- Trust and respect support good cooperation.
- Learning these skills helps build strong relationships.
- Cooperation helps succeed in group activities.

Practice Questions

- 1 Describe what makes someone a good friend.
- 2 Practice cooperating with a friend on a small task.
- 3 Discuss a time you helped a friend.
- 4 Work with a classmate on a group activity.
- 5 Write about the qualities of a good friend.
- 6 Discuss why cooperation matters in a team.