

A Short Story

Chapter 4: A Short Story · Topic 1

Key Concept

A story usually has a beginning, middle, and end, telling us what happens to characters in a sequence of events.

Characters are the people or animals in a story, and we can learn about their feelings, actions, and what happens to them.

Listening to or reading stories helps us understand what happens first, next, and last, building comprehension skills.

Stories can teach us lessons, make us laugh, or help us imagine new places and adventures beyond our everyday lives.

Quick Revision Notes

- A story has beginning, middle, end.
- It tells events in sequence.
- Characters are people or animals in the story.
- We learn their feelings and actions.
- Stories build comprehension of sequence.
- They teach us what happens first, next, last.
- Stories can teach lessons or entertain.
- They help us imagine new things.

Practice Questions

- 1 Listen to or read a short story.
- 2 Name the characters in a story you know.
- 3 Tell the beginning, middle and end of a story.
- 4 Draw your favourite character from a story.
- 5 Make up a simple short story.
- 6 Discuss what lesson a story taught you.