

My Family and Home

Chapter 5: My Family and Home · Topic 1

Key Concept

A family can be a nuclear family (parents and children) or a joint family (including grandparents, uncles, aunts, and cousins living together).

Our home is a safe place where our family lives, and different families may live in different types of homes based on their needs and location.

Every family member has different roles and responsibilities, and working together helps the family function smoothly and happily.

Celebrating family traditions and spending time together helps strengthen our bond with family members.

Quick Revision Notes

- Family types: nuclear and joint family.
- Nuclear: parents and children.
- Joint: includes grandparents, uncles, aunts.
- Home is a safe place for family.
- Homes vary by needs and location.
- Family members have different roles.
- Working together helps family function well.
- Traditions and time together strengthen bonds.

Practice Questions

- 1 Draw your family and label each member.
- 2 Discuss whether you live in a nuclear or joint family.
- 3 Talk about a family tradition you enjoy.
- 4 Discuss the responsibilities of different family members.
- 5 Draw your home.
- 6 List two ways your family spends time together.