

Means of Communication

Chapter 6: Means of Communication · Topic 1

Key Concept

Telephones and mobile phones let us talk to people instantly, even if they are far away.

Letters are written messages sent through the post, taking longer to reach but still an important way to communicate.

The internet allows us to send emails, messages, and video calls, connecting us quickly with people around the world.

Newspapers and television are also means of communication, helping share news and information with many people at once.

Quick Revision Notes

- Telephones let us talk to people instantly.
- Mobile phones connect us even from far away.
- Letters are written messages sent by post.
- Letters take longer to reach than calls.
- The internet allows emails and video calls.
- The internet connects us with people worldwide.
- Newspapers and television share news.
- These reach many people at once.

Practice Questions

- 1 List three means of communication.
- 2 Discuss the difference between a letter and a phone call.
- 3 Talk about how you communicate with distant family.
- 4 Write a simple letter to a friend.
- 5 Discuss how the internet helps communication.
- 6 Name a way news reaches your home.