

Chapter 11: The Great Indian Novel - A Parody

Chapter 11: The Great Indian Novel - Topic 2

Key Concept

The Great Indian Novel is a parody of the Mahabharata. It is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas. The story is set in a modern Indian setting, but it follows the same basic plot as the Mahabharata. The Pandavas are the good guys, and the Kauravas are the bad guys. The story is a commentary on the Indian society and its problems.

The Great Indian Novel is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas. The story is set in a modern Indian setting, but it follows the same basic plot as the Mahabharata. The Pandavas are the good guys, and the Kauravas are the bad guys. The story is a commentary on the Indian society and its problems.

The Great Indian Novel is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas. The story is set in a modern Indian setting, but it follows the same basic plot as the Mahabharata. The Pandavas are the good guys, and the Kauravas are the bad guys. The story is a commentary on the Indian society and its problems.

The Great Indian Novel is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas. The story is set in a modern Indian setting, but it follows the same basic plot as the Mahabharata. The Pandavas are the good guys, and the Kauravas are the bad guys. The story is a commentary on the Indian society and its problems.

Quick Revision Notes

- The Great Indian Novel is a parody of the Mahabharata.
- The story is set in a modern Indian setting.
- The Pandavas are the good guys, and the Kauravas are the bad guys.
- The story is a commentary on the Indian society and its problems.
- The Great Indian Novel is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas.
- The story is set in a modern Indian setting, but it follows the same basic plot as the Mahabharata.
- The Pandavas are the good guys, and the Kauravas are the bad guys.
- The story is a commentary on the Indian society and its problems.
- The Great Indian Novel is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas.
- The story is set in a modern Indian setting, but it follows the same basic plot as the Mahabharata.

Practice Questions

1. 'The Great Indian Novel' is a parody of the Mahabharata.
2. 'The Great Indian Novel' is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas.
3. The Pandavas are the good guys, and the Kauravas are the bad guys.
4. The story is a commentary on the Indian society and its problems.
5. The Great Indian Novel is a story of a family that is divided into two groups, the Pandavas and the Kauravas.
6. The story is set in a modern Indian setting, but it follows the same basic plot as the Mahabharata.