

India and Other Countries

Chapter 15: India and Other Countries · Topic 1

Key Concept

India has developed strong relationships with neighbouring countries in South Asia, focusing on trade, security, and regional cooperation.

India's relationships with major powers, including the United States, Russia, and China, involve a complex mix of cooperation and competition.

India actively participates in international forums, advocating for the interests of developing nations and promoting global cooperation.

India's growing economic and diplomatic influence has increased its role as a significant player in international affairs and global governance.

Quick Revision Notes

- India: strong ties with South Asian neighbours.
- Focus: trade, security, regional cooperation.
- Relations with US, Russia, China: cooperation, competition.
- India participates in international forums.
- Advocates for developing nations' interests.
- Also promotes global cooperation.
- India's influence has grown economically, diplomatically.
- It's now significant in global governance.

Practice Questions

- 1 Research India's relationship with a neighbouring country.
- 2 Discuss India's relationship with a major power.
- 3 Research India's role in an international forum.
- 4 Discuss why regional cooperation matters for India.
- 5 Research India's growing global influence.
- 6 Explain India's international relations in your own words.