

Practice and Revision - Composition Writing

Chapter 7: Composition Writing · Topic 2

Key Concept

A good composition has an introduction, body paragraphs with details, and a conclusion, organised in a logical structure.

Using descriptive words and varied sentence structures makes our composition more engaging and interesting to read.

Planning our ideas before writing, like making a simple outline, helps organise our composition better.

Practising composition writing regularly on different topics improves our ability to express thoughts clearly and creatively.

Quick Revision Notes

- Composition has introduction, body, conclusion.
- It follows a logical structure.
- Descriptive words make writing engaging.
- Varied sentences also help.
- Planning ideas before writing helps.
- A simple outline organises thoughts.
- Practice improves clear expression.
- It also improves creativity.

Practice Questions

- 1 Write a composition about 'My Favourite Season.'
- 2 Plan an outline before writing about 'My Best Friend.'
- 3 Use three descriptive words in a composition.
- 4 Write a composition with a clear introduction and conclusion.
- 5 Read your composition aloud and check its structure.
- 6 Write a composition about a memorable day.