

Chapter 9: The Story of the Blind Men - अंधों की कहानी

Chapter 9: The Story of the Blind Men · Topic 2

Key Concept

The story is a parable about the limitations of human perception. It illustrates how people often form conclusions based on their limited experience or perspective, leading to misunderstandings. The story teaches us to be open-minded and to consider different viewpoints.

The story is set in a kingdom where all the people were blind. They had never seen the sun, the moon, or the stars.

One day, a traveler came to the kingdom and told them about the world. He said, 'The sun is like a big ball of fire, the moon is like a silver disc, and the stars are like small lights in the sky.'

The people were very curious and wanted to know more. They asked the traveler many questions, but he could only tell them what he had seen.

Quick Revision Notes

- The story is a parable about the limitations of human perception.
- The story teaches us to be open-minded and to consider different viewpoints.
- The story is set in a kingdom where all the people were blind.
- A traveler came to the kingdom and told them about the world.
- The people were very curious and wanted to know more.
- The traveler could only tell them what he had seen.
- The people formed different conclusions based on their limited experience.
- The story illustrates how people often form conclusions based on their limited experience or perspective.
- The story teaches us to be open-minded and to consider different viewpoints.

Practice Questions

- 'The sun is like a big ball of fire' - What does this mean?
- Why were the people in the kingdom blind?
- What did the traveler tell them about the world?
- How did the people form different conclusions?
- 'The sun is like a big ball of fire' - What does this mean?
- What lesson can we learn from this story?